October Section Luncheon Meeting

“The Freelon Group- Design Approach and Methodology”

Phil Freelon, FAIA

October 16, 2007 11:45 - 1:00 - Sawtooth Center

This presentation will focus on three recently completed projects- two museums and one municipal building. Discussion of the specific challenges and opportunities of each of these AIA design award winning designs will bring to light some of the insights of the firm's design approach and methodology.

Lunch will be catered by River Birch Lodge

President's Message and News:

We are very excited to have Phil Freelon, FAIA as the chairman of the jury for our annual design competition. Phil will be with us for the presentation of the AIA Winston Salem design awards, directly following his discussion of some of his recently completed work.

The Architecture Trolley Tour was very successful. It is obvious from the response that we received from the people on the tour that there is considerable interest in the architectural history of Winston Salem. We have a great opportunity to capitalize on this event and continue to develop a stronger public awareness of the AIA and architecture in Winston Salem. We will be asking for participation from many of you who can help provide some additional insight in the rich architectural history that we enjoy.

We have some very special guests to complete our luncheon meetings for the remainder of the year. Frank Harmon, FAIA will join us in November, and we will have professors from Virginia Tech presenting their award winning Solar Decathlon House project in December.

Don't forget: NC AIA PAC campaign is ongoing- PLEASE CONTRIBUTE IF YOU HAVE NOT ALREADY DONE SO!
